MAYOR'S ADDRESS.

GENTLEMEN OF THE CITY COUNCIL:—The blessings of Heaven having been invoked and the oath of office duly administered, we are now to enter upon the discharge of the important duties assigned to us by our fellow-citizens. In peaceful times and under ordinary circumstances our course would be marked out for us, and need seldom diverge from the line of safe precedent. While we suffered no interest indispensable to the welfare, comfort or progress of the community to fall into neglect, we might reasonably be expected to manifest a spirit of liberality in carrying out all wise and well-considered plans to improve to the utmost all the advantages of position we possess, to extend the business and increase the attractiveness of our city, and thus add to the contentment and happiness of our fellow-citizens. But now, when we are in the midst of a prolonged and destructive civil war, when we are playing a game whose stake is national existence, when requisitions are thinning our population and necessary taxation diminishing our resources, it will be no less your duty, than, I doubt not, your fixed determination and constant study, to discourage all new enterprises, not absolutely necessary, and to keep our expenditures, in the several Departments, to the lowest point consistent with that efficiency which our fellow citizens have a right to expect and demand. If to meet the requirements of the times, to provide for contingences, to pay bounties to our soldiers, to encourage them to enlist, to discharge our obligations to the families of our citizens in the service, and to our country, if for these objects we are obliged to continue to add to the permanent debt of the city, we shall find in the necessities of our condition an excuse satisfactory even to those who come after us, and who must bear the burdens we have laid upon them. If we are obliged to furnish the men to fight the battles for the continuance of our free government, surely those who come after us should assist in paying the necessary cost of the same. With honesty of purpose and exercising our best judgment and ability, let us, during our term of office, seek quietly to fulfil every obligation and discharge every duty : indulging at its close in no boasting of what we have been able to accomplish, but leave the record of our doings to speak for us, and our fellow-citizens to bestow or withhold, as they may see fit, any commendation which we may have fairly merited.

I shall now, in accordance with established usages, proceed to submit to you a statement of the financial condition of the City as presented by the City Treasurer. Our city debt has been largely increased during the past year, caused principally by the bounties paid our drafted men and volunteers, and aid to their families. Relying upon the patriotism of our people, I am confident in the future, that the exercise of a careful yet judicious liberality towards the families of our absent soldiers, will continue to command the approbation of our citizens.

Our City Debt is about $83,000. I would recommend the issue of $50,000 in bonds, payable in from 1 to 25 years, with interest paid on the balance annually. The 72 men which our city was entitled to furnish to fill our quota of the last call have all been obtained, while several of our cities and towns have, up to this time, been unable fully to fill their quotas. Our expenditure for this last call will be about $40,000; we shall receive back from the Government of this amount about $27,000. At the previous call of the Government the City voted to pay to each man drafted or his substitute, after he was mustered into the service, three hundred dollars ; this sum was also paid to those men who were drafted and furnished substitutes, amounting to $16,000.

Our streets and highways are in good condition ; a substantial wooden bridge has been constructed on Fourth St. at an expense of $2,500. The bridge in the upper part of the city, called the Upper Factory Bridge, might be discontinued without any material inconvenience to the public, as very few have need of its use. The expenditures on our highways, I trust, will be greatly diminished the present year, unless the bridge referred to should be re-built, as it is now impassable.

The Poor Department, under the superintendence of the present efficient Overseer of the poor, is well conducted. The Alms House, under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Caswell, is deserving of much commendation. The average number of inmates for the past year has been 35. Persons really poor, admitted to our Alms House by the proper authorities, should be made to feel themselves welcome by all those who have the care of them, all the ordinary comforts of life should be allowed them to make their condition as comfortable as their circumstances will admit, and they can there spend the remainder of their days in quiet and peace. The receipts will exceed the expenditures of this institution.

The Fire Department is, as I learn, in an efficient and satisfactory condition. The expenditures in this Department the past year have been $2,685,51. I am most happy in feeling authorized to say, that we have in our Fire Department an efficient body of men, deserving of praise and encouragement, ready to sacrifice pleasure, ease and comfort to duty, reliable in every extremity of peril, faithful and fearless, and that a good state of feeling exists through the entire corps. Our city has always been remarkably exempt from fires, the few that have taken place having been conquered before great damage was done. Let us hope that we may be long blessed with immunity from the ravages of the desolating element, not omitting in the future to keep ourselves and our apparatus ready for any emergency. Within a few years Steam Fire Engines have been introduced into many of our cities, and their success seems to have been marked and decisive. It might be advisable to try the experiment here, and if it should be found upon sufficient trial that they possess great advantages over hand engines by their power of throwing larger and more continuous streams of water, by the very reduced companies required to work them, and by their being in the general result more reliable, as has been claimed for them, it may be sound judgment, and the true interest of the city, to act upon the results so reached. If, in consequence, there shall be a reduction in the number and size of the Fire Companies, I am confident that the fire-men, good citizens as they have proved themselves, will look with no jealous eye upon the innovation, but will show as noble and praiseworthy a devotion to the interest of the city in laying down, as they have done in assuming, and sustaining their burdensome and most important duties. I would recommend the City Council appoint a suitable Committee, to confer with the authorities of cities where Fire Engines have been introduced, and report the facts of the case for its future action.

Our Public Schools stand prominently before us, as institutions whose condition is the index of public morals and public refinement. Much observation, and not a little experience, enables me to say that we have a system which, in nearly all its details, especially in the higher departments, is truly excellent, and far in advance of many of our sister cities. Our wise and thoughtful forefathers knew that to secure perpetuity of such a State as they desired and intended to create, an educated people would be needed. They knew, too, that to become such an educated people, the means of education must be made open and free to all—to the child of the poorest as well as the child of richest, and such is the system now sustained in every city and town in the State. As our Schools are entrusted to the hands of good and faithful committees, it is unnecessary for me to enlarge on this subject.

Another interest of much importance is the Police Department. The expenses have been increased this year, owing to the necessity of a night watch. We believe the efficiency of our Police has generally received the approbation of our citizens, and will compare favorably with the Police Department of other cities in this State. I have no doubt you will adopt such measures as will continue its efficiency and usefulness, and make it the protection of our community and an effectual restraint to the vicious and lawless.

Gentlemen, notwithstanding we are now engaged in a civil war, States discordant, dissevered, belligerent, the land drenched with the blood of those who should be brethren, mourning overshadowing almost every household, the hum of industry uttering but stifled murmur, commerce deranged, enormous expenses rolling up each day, to be paid by taxation, and a general gloom pervading the land; notwithstanding all this, let us trust in an overruling Providence, take courage and be patient and hopeful. Let us cling to the Union as the only basis of national credit and honor; let us not consent to blot out a single star from the National Flag or a single State from our galaxy of glory. We will still trust that we shall be able to maintain the forms of the noblest institutions of time, and our national honor and existence, by such exertions as may prove us worthy of them. Let us hope that Christian principles, will yet revive and over-spread the land, and that mutual good feeling may yet prevail between those who now have their hands raised against each other, and give us a permanent reunion, and that peace and prosperity will again smile upon us all.

But if our Government fails, immediately will the shriek of expiring Liberty re-echo throughout the universe. We are pledged to mankind to support unshaken the noble fabric of our Union, that it may tower the beacon of the storm.

tossed patriot. We are pledged to our posterity to transmit to them our country's happiness and our country's glory, if not augmented, blazing at least with primitive refulgence. We are the guardians of a precious deposit, the heirs in trust of an invaluable entail ; all are co-heirs of the legacy, and all must contribute their treasure or efforts towards its preservation ; and in imitation of the immortal signers of the Declaration of Independence, we should pledge to each other, to the world and posterity, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor, that we will not suffer the serpent's teeth of treason, nor the hands of intriguing demagogues, to destroy this Union and this Government, the best the sun ever shone upon.

I will detain you no longer. I trust that zeal for the public welfare, tempered by wisdom and discretion, that uniform and courteous forbearance, will characterize our deliberations, and that at no time will any of our constituents have just cause to repent they confided the public interest to our keeping.
